JULY 10 – DEC 8
Comprised of more than 30 rarely seen works on paper and sculpture from several private collections, this exhibition explores how Benjamin Harjo Jr. (b. 1945, Absentee Shawnee and Seminole) creates his place in the world. Through a connection to his heritage and the wider American and international aboriginal communities, Harjo generates an individual perspective that is rooted in the past, informed by the present, and looking to the future. Curated by Cassidy Petrazzi, OSU Master’s Candidate.

CENTERING MODERNISM: J. JAY MCVICKER AND POSTWAR AMERICAN ART
SEPT 25 – JAN 19
This exhibition recovers the artistry of Jesse Jay McVicker (1911-2004), a mid-twentieth-century painter, printmaker, and sculptor on faculty at Oklahoma State University. Over six decades, McVicker exhibited internationally, creating work in a wide range of modernist styles. But as New York and Los Angeles increasingly claimed the avant-garde in the 1950s and 1960s, McVicker—and many of his colleagues—all but disappeared from history. Centering Modernism fills this gap in reinserting McVicker’s contributions to international modernism. Curated by Louise Siddons, OSU Associate Professor of Art History.

RECEPTION
Sept 27 from 5 to 7 pm
Know J. Jay McVicker or Centering Modernism? Join us at Bliss Books & Bindery for a book signing with exhibition curator Louise Siddons, OSU Associate Professor of Art History.
